THE FUTURE STARTS NOW

The future belongs to connected companies – the ones that are able to unlock the true potential of their people by bringing them together to communicate and collaborate more effectively.

This is what Workplace was built to do. We make people closer, teamwork faster and culture stronger. That supports three key goals for senior leaders.

Communicate strategy & priorities

Workplace puts your entire company within reach, so you can share key announcements with everybody through Group posts or even Live video.

Get insights from everywhere

Workplace gives everybody an equal opportunity to share their insights and ideas. So you can get feedback from parts of the business you might not usually interact with, like your frontline employees or regional offices.

Attract top talent

People's expectations of technology have never been higher - whether at home or at work. Using modern, mobile-friendly tools like Workplace can give you a competitive advantage when it comes to attracting the best people.

"Culture and community, married to strategy, is what drives business results. If you don't have a connected, collaborative, engaged culture, you're not going to be able to do that."

Mindy Grossman, CEO

Become a more connected company

Workplace uses simple and familiar tools to connect people and start conversations.

Live Video

Ditch the script (and the emails). Live video broadcasts create more engaging employee communication, with real-time feedback and automatic captioning for anyone who needs it.

Groups

Groups help you organize your people and share relevant information. Create Groups for your entire company, regional teams or individual projects, then create conversations through posts, videos, file sharing, comments, likes and reactions.

Workplace Chat

Instant messaging has transformed business communication. Reach anybody, anytime on desktop or mobile to make quick decisions. Or switch to video calling at the touch of a button.
